

- Remediation: For students who do not have the necessary background for a particular unit of the course.

- Enrichment: For students who have mastered the content and need something more challenging.

- Choice: For all students, allowing them to choose among optional items.

- Adapted from Larry Lovell-Troy and Paul Eickmann, Course Design for College Teachers. Educational Technology Publications (January 1992)