

Dream List I

What do you want the students to learn? Accumulate as many content areas or topics as possible. Imagine the best course you could teach on this topic and include everything you could possibly dream could be put into it. Take into account the skills, attitudes, and values you would like your students to acquire from your course.

- Adapted from Larry Lovell-Troy and Paul Eickmann, Course Design for College Teachers. Educational Technology Publications (January 1992)